FOLKWAY EXHIBIT

A special exhibit featuring memorabilia, recordings, and historical information will open to the public on March through September 2010.

Thirty-five years ago on February 28, 1975, the first folk concert was held at a wonderful little coffeehouse in a Victorian home on Grove Street in Peterborough. Throughout most of the next 21 years, The Folkway would be an important stop for any established or rising folk musician. They loved the audiences who listened attentively and generously showed their appreciation.

The Peterborough Historical Society wishes to honor the memory of The Folkway. We are holding a series of concerts as a tribute to the significant impact that The Folkway had on the area's social and cultural fabric. Many former employees and musicians will be involved at each event.
